SAFEGUARDING UPDATE September Edition 2021

Messages from Young People

Members of the Youth Board led a conference in August. One theme was based on the experiences of autistic young people. Here are some key messages they shared.

Face Coverings. I can't wear one for a long time. I don't look 'disabled' and therefore I feel anxious that people are looking at me."

They agreed that the medical-grade facemasks are "a bit smelly" and prefer fabric face coverings.

We want professionals to know that every autistic person is different.

I have never enjoyed school due to there being too much sensory input & I really struggled with the social situations in school. Due to this, it's been nice learning from home as it's given me some time to focus on my education on my own terms

Questions to Consider:

Do you think it's fair for young people to feel questioned or disbelieved about having autism?

What could you do as a worker to prevent this from happening and promote diversity and acceptance of differences?

I'm not particularly keen on online calls though again, I have mixed opinions. Face to face meetings can be extremely difficult due to the pressure to make eye contact and to appear as neurotypical (not autistic) In that sense, video calls are easier as I can turn off my camera and type in chat if I don't feel able to physically engage

Overcoming Barriers to engaging with families – Training Opportunity practice and is part of the Avon & Somerset Strategic Safeguarding Partnerships (ASSSP) Training Initiative. This course aims to equip leads and practitioners with the skills and knowledge base to work more effectively with families where there are barriers to engagement.

Learning from a Rapid Review – Safeguarding Adults

Recently there was a referral to consider a Safeguarding Adults Review, the SAR subgroup undertook a rapid review of all organisations involved to help identify if the incident met the criteria for a review. On this occasion it did not, but there is still some learning to share.

The rapid review identified that practitioners were not confident about the process for reporting concerns about adults in a position of trust.

Do you know what to do if you are worried about the behaviour of someone working with adults?

Professionals from all organisations need to know where to get help. We have multiagency guidance. Please read and share widely in your organisation.

Tricky Friends

Norfolk SAB has launched 'Tricky Friends' – a 3-minute animation developed to help people to understand what good friendships are, when they might be harmful, and what they can do. This animation was created following discussions with groups and organisations in Norfolk who support people with learning disabilities and autism, about how to raise awareness of issues like exploitation, county lines, cuckooing. You can use this to help people to think about the issues, to start those conversations, and keep them safer while enjoying friendships.

You can watch the animation here Tricky Friends animation | Norfolk Safeguarding Adults Board
